Wednesday

excited

I was really excited because class 2 was going to visit Flag Fen as part of our topic on the Stone Age, Bronze Age and Iron Age. Flag is named after the beautiful, yellow flag iris. Fen is named after the flat land around us.

First, we walked to the museum ~~with~~ <sup>with</sup> Alex Cow teacher for the day <sup>make</sup> there we ~~were~~ <sup>were</sup> doing a time line to help us understand time. I was the Stone Age boy and I had a Stone Age axe, Coral was a Bronze Age girl and she had a Bronze Age axe, Leo was a Iron Age boy and he had a Iron Age axe, Kyle was a Roman and he had a plastic sword and Olivia was a dinosaur and she had a dinosaur.

Quickly, we made our way through the flock of sheep that would be there two thousand years ago. When we were at the lake Alex explained that it was like a supermarket because they had eels, fish, ducks and geese for food, plants for clothing and plants and berries for medicine.

What a great trip I had! I learnt ~~a lot~~ <sup>that</sup> experimental archeology is about archeologist making things look like a round house. I was so surprised at how clever the Bronze Age people were at building things such as the causeway. You will learn lots there.

Kieran, a good recount that shares some of what you learned at Flag Fen with the reader.

I am pleased you remembered about the experimental archaeologists.
